

Yuzaburo Nagasaka - Curriculum Vitae

Profile

Yuzaburo Nagasaka is a Japan-based professional engaged in research, editorial work, and documentation support within international cultural contexts.

His work has focused on the organization, translation, and editing of multilingual materials, as well as the structural coordination of documents used in international meetings and cross-border initiatives.

This document provides an overview of his professional background and selected areas of activity, compiled for reference and archival purposes.

Professional Experience

MCJ, Ltd. Representative Director: 2009 – Present

Supported the operation and coordination of international conferences and events

Managed the organization and editing of multilingual media and conference materials

Oversaw the preparation and arrangement of documents for international audiences

Coordinated communication workflows among teams working in different linguistic and cultural environments

Independent Professional Freelance: 2000 – 2009

Conducted research related to international cultural studies

Provided translation and editorial support for policy-related documents

Assisted in the organization, and proofreading of multilingual written materials

Supported document structuring and content consistency for cross-border projects

Areas of Work

Multilingual document organization and editing

Translation and editorial coordination in international contexts

Research support in international cultural studies

Documentation and content structuring for policy-related materials

Coordination of written communication across languages and regions

Selected Project Themes

Optimization of multilingual communication in international conferences

Editorial support for documents addressing cultural diversity in public contexts

Structural organization of materials used in international policy discussions

Coordination of written resources for cross-border collaborative initiatives

Languages

Japanese / English

Note

This curriculum vitae is intended as a reference document summarizing publicly available professional information. Unauthorized reproduction or use of this document is prohibited.